Merry Lark Wins Seagate Stakes by a Head—Uneas Takes Handleap—McCarren's St. Estephe Gallops Home—Four

Favorites Lose at Brighton Track. E. R. Thomas's Hermis, who had not started since his victory over Beldame in the Test Handicap at Brighton last year, convinced 12,000 turf enthusiasts at the Beach yesterday that he is himself again and that, barring accidents, he will soon be making another bid for championship honors. Hermis started in the second race, a condition affair for four-year-olds at six furlongs. He was a prohibitive favorite over John A. Drake's Jocund and an inferior lot, and went to the post in splendid shape. Willie Knapp had the mount and took the great racer to the front as soon as the barrier was raised to a poor start, in which Sovereign was as good as left. It was only a breeze for Hermis after that, with Josund chasing him in hope-less fashion all the way. At the wire he was after that, with Jocund chasing him in hopeless fashion all the way. At the wire he was eased up, winning by a length in 1:13 1-5, and also coming back to the scale as sound as a bell of brass. Jocund took place money, four lengths before Incubator, a 50 to 1 shot. The Seagate stakes, for three-year-olds, nine furlongs, was notable for a hot finish, in which Andrew Miller's Merry Lark, 4 to 1, won by a head from the Kenilworth Stable's Coy Maid, 7 to 1, both being under a hard drive all through the stretch. James R. Keene's Wild Mint, 9 to 2, was third, two and a half lengths back. R. E. Watkins's St. Bellane, 3 to 2 favorite, with Martin up, was shockingly beaten. He was never a factor and finished far back in the ruck. Martin also rode another hot favorite, Go Between, to defeat in the handicap at nine furlongs. After Wotan, 8 to 1, had led to the head of the stretch, Knapp took Uncas, 9 to 2, to the front, the latter winning ridden out by two lengths in 132 3-5. Wotan had a length over Sydney Paget's Woodsaw, 7 to 1, with Monsieur Beaucaire, second choice, four lengths out of the money.

Senstor McCarren's St. Estephe, 7 to 2, won the first race, for two-year-olds, six furlongs, in a big gallop by five lengths. Andria, 7 to 1, nailed the place from Sir Russell, the favorite, by a head, with Lord Provost, Wool Soap and Edith James close up. The time was 1:15.

STEWARD'S HORSE FAVORED

MERRY LARK WEARS BLINKERS CONTRARY TO RULE.

Jockey Weighs In Without Them. After Which Andrew Miller, the Owner, Gets Consent to Use Them-Contrary to Ruling in Garnish Case—Some Big Hets.

There was an interesting tangle at Brighton track yesterday over the rule regarding the wearing of blinkers. On July 6, Lyne, who had been engaged to ride Garnish, weighed in without blinkers through an error. Afterward when the owner of the to put blinkers on Garnish he was notified that it was against the rules. The horse, as a result, went to the post without them, contrary to custom, and was badly beaten. Yesterday when Hildebrand, who was engaged to ride Merry Lark, owned by Andrew Miller, a steward of the Jockey Club, weighed in for the Seagate Stakes he forgot to carry the blickers to the scales. After he had left the weighing machine the error was discovered, but Hildebrand was informed by Al Adler that it was too late to weigh in again Then Tom Welsh, the trainer of Merry Lark, hunted up Mr. Miller and told him the facts. Mr. Miller lost no time in seeking an interview with W. S. Vosburgh, one of the stewards of the meeting, who, after hearing what Mr. Miller had to say, promptly gave his consent to the wearing of blinkers by Merry Lark, who had always worn them. C. J. Fitzgerald and J. E. Follansbee, who are acting with Mr. Vosburgh in the stand at Brighton, knew nothing of the matter until after the race had been run and naturally referred all questioners to Mr. Vosburgh, who said that the Merry Lark case differed somewhat from the Garnish case inasmuch as the Jocker word to Mr. Vosburgh that some leniency should be shown in future cases of this kind when the weight was not affected and the was always accustomed to wear the rogue's badge.

To horsemen who discussed the incident in the paddock after the race it seemed as if some discrimination had been shown, a proceeding which evoked much adverse criticism. They said that what was fair for one owner happened to be a Jockey Club steward, and that if the Jockey Club had decided to change the enforcement of this important rule a notice should have been publicly posted in the paddock for the benefit of owners and trainers in general. C. J. Fitzgerald wished to have it understood that it was the Jockey Club and not the Brighton Beach Racing Association which had assumed responsihility for this odd state of affairs.

The Brighton stewards, as THE SUN outlined last Sunday, handed down a formal decision in the Keator case, in which Trainer Frank Weir was censured for sending a horse to the post when he was unfit to run his best race. Beyond that there was no further action, and the incident may be considered management during the day from Trainer John W. Rogers regarding the proposition to let Artful meet Sysonby in a match race at a mile at the Beach next Monday, but Rainey. Pronta ran in Rainey's name yesterday, but if there had been a protest from any of the owners of horses in the race the purse would have been forfeited in all probability. The official red tape will be straightened out to-day.

A. B. Hudson, a friend of John W. Gates, who is a heavy better, picked some sure money when he bet $3,000 to win $1,000 on Hermis with a clubhouse commissioner. E. R. Thomas, Alex Shields, Joe Hayman, Ed Stutte, the Lichtensteins and Frank Moore regarded 1 to 3 against Hermis as liberal and backed the horse accordingly. Jocund a place was a magnet, for wagers made by Charley Heney, Fred Esher, Frank Hayes and Joe Hayman, who was not satisfied to play Hermis to win. Joe Murphy had a $500 bet on Sovereign to win. Sir Russel burned up a pot of money in the first race, the Lichtensteins, George Wheelock, Heney, M. Manheimer, Joe Rose, Mark Riordan and George Kraus going down with a thud. Lord Provost was the selection of Orlande Jones, Eddie McDonald and Hillwitzer. H. Dargin and Bob Rose played Busy Bee and Joe Murphy and Joe Howard took Lieber. P. McGrath went to Edith James, Frank Tyler solit a bet on Andria, while Henry Harris and several clubhouse commissioners cashed extensively on Senator McCarren's St Estephe.

There was a wild tip in circulation on New Mown Hay to beat Pronta in the third race, and it was fairly eaten up by Joe Hayman, John Coleman, L. Curtis, Charley Cash and Eole Pearsail, who bet heavily. Eddie McDonald. Dave Johnson, J. Ryan, C. T. Henshall, R. A. Rainey and the Lichtensteins cleaned up with Pronta. Alex Shields split $1,000 on Buttons, with Stutte splitting $1,000 on Israelite.

shall, R. A. Rainey and the Lichtensteins cleaned up with Pronta. Alex Shields split $1,000 on Buttons, with Stutte splitting $1,000 on Israelite.

St. Bellane, in the fourth race, made a heap of wise money go up in smoke. This horse was in great demand at 3 to 2 among such operators as the Lichtensteins, Bob McGiven, Joe Hayman, Smith Keime, Joese Lewisohn and Morris Hayman. Wheelock lost $2,000 on Wild Mint, Tongorder was supported by G. Clark, a newcomer, who wagered $1,500; Eddie McDonald and J. H. Beck. Stutte won $7,500 on Merry Lark, who also won big bets for Joe Rose, Eole Pearsall and Max Frank.

Wheelock, who is in the midst of a sensational losing streak, received another setback when he lost $3,000 on Go Between in the fifth race. Alex Shields dropped all of $2,500 on this horse, who was widely played by the Lichtensteins, Bill Beverly. Tom Costigan and others. The victory of Uncas was especially profitable for Billy Du Bois, J. H. Beck and the friends of M. F. McDonald. Monsieur Beaucaire was a poor investment for Charly Quinn, Joe Yeager, Joe Howard, Jimmy McGorunick and Frank Moore. Sim Deimel split $1,000 on Wotan, straight and third, and Henry Harris had down a $500 wager to win, Henry Schoffs took Sinister and so did "The Humming Bird" Ike Thompson stood to win $5,000 on Woodsaw.

The paddock tip in the last race was Chalfonte, who was made the favorite, with Dave Johnson losing $3,000, and smaller wagers dropped by the Lichtensteins, Jack McDonald and others. Stutte cleaned up $6,000 on Snow, winding up a great day Costigan burned up $1,000 on Ingelside and Charley Fox took Bellsnicker.

Pronta, after winning the third race, was bid up to $2,200 by Joe Buenacore, Trainer Wright protecting the mare with the usual increase. The run-up netted Willie Shields, who ran second with Buttons, just $600, Incidentally AR. R. Schaffer, who was represented in the race by Onward, claimed New Mown Hay from Boots Durnell for $2,260.

There were sixty-six Mets and ten outsiders in the front line yesterday. Ma death.

Bronze Wing, after finishing the third race, ran away a mile before Crimmins could get him under control.

Hildebraud, who has been criticised lately for some weak rides, put up remarkable finishes on Pronta and Merry Lark. He had Pronta under the whip at the head of the stretch, and never let up until he had won.

Bullman rode his first winner in a month of Sundays when he brought Snow home in the last race. Although he had the money cinched when he turned into the stretch, he decided to take no chances, and used his while decided to take no chances, and used his whip.

Willie Knapp's riding during the afternoon excited much favorable comment. He was second with Andria in the opening event, won with Hermis in the second, was second with Coy Maid in the fourth, won with Uncas in the fifth and took place money with Chalfonte in the last event.

Boston Professionals Arrive at Van Cort

Two notable arrivals at Van Cortlandt Park yesterday were the Boston profes-sionals Aleck Campbell of the Country Club Brookline, and David Brown, who made a sensation by tying with Will Anderson for the open championship in 1903, but losing is a veteran in the game and won the British open championship in 1886, over his home course at Musselburgh, was as jaunty as young bantam and reeled off a 77 the first time round. Aleck Campbell, best known as the Nipper, made 79. The scores were made in four ball matches, in which the pros were mostly concerned in their own cards. The best card of the day was returned by Robert Dow of the Knollwood Country Club. It was:

Eastern Y. C. Cruise.

CAMDEN, Me., July 11 .- Arthur F. Luke's chooner Corona again led the fleet of the Eastern Yacht Club in the fourth racing run of its eastward cruise to-day. The course was from Boothbay Harbor to Mark Island, opposite Camden, thirty-nine miles. The start was made in faint airs, at 11:30 o'clock, start was made in faint airs, at 11:30 o'clock. A moderate southwest breeze blew in midafternoon, softening toward sundown. The corona was 6 hours 37 minutes covering the course. Her competitor, the Chanticleer, was 1 hour 25 minutes longer.

The new 56-foot waterline Herreshoff sloop Doris won in her class from the 70-footer Athene on allowance. The smaller classes did not finish up to one half hour after sunset, when the Eastern Club calls it races over. The fleet proceeds at will to Islesboro tomorrow, races to Partlett's Narrows on Thursday, and thence around the island of Mount Desert to Bar Harbor on Friday. On Saturday the cruise will be wound up with an invitation race off Bar Harbor in which several New York Yacht Club boats are expected to enter.

The match race between the 70-footers Virginia and Mineola will be sailed off Oyster Bay on July 26. In this race each boat is to be manned by an amateur crew. Commodore W. K. Vanderbilt's Virginia will have on board several members of the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club and W. Ross Proctor's Mineola will be manned by members of the Indian Harbor Yacht Club.

to break the ice. The ice is still unbroken, but it sagged and came mighty near cracking before the New Yorks, by playing a stiff uppill game and keeping a stiff upper lip, skated safely over the thin spots. Both teams went into the combat with their sleeves rolled up and loaded for bear. Players were on their toes all the time, and spectators were on edge all the time.

Lengthy Reulbach, who had speed that scorched the air through which it hurtled, became unsteady in the last two innings in the face of a trying situation, and his infield became slightly unsteady behind him. The New Yorks took advantage of the unsteadiness, first to tie the score and then to win the game. A bunching of clean, solid welts in the seventh inning resulted in the Chicagos taking the lead, and in the eighth inning a wild pitch gave then two more runs. Wiltee made the wild pitch, but it was not his fault that the men go; on bases. The Ichicagos were hitting McGinnity again in the eighth inning when he became involved in a wrangle with Umpire O'Day and was put out of the game. Wiltee had had no warming up, and under the circumstances finished the game out in exceptional style.

The New Yorks outbatted and outfielded the Chicagos. Dahlen had lots to do and did it perfectly, and he had as many difficult chances as easy ones. Any fly ball that was within earshot of him he got, and he was sure death to grounders. Tinker was another sterling actor, covering a great expanse of ground and making pyrotechnic stops. Casey was pratty swift himself, but both he and Tinker made a costiv error. The umpires, two of the best in the business, had an off day. They made base decisions which nine out of ten spectators were honestly convinced were wrong. Both sides suffered from poor decisions, but the New Yorks suffered more than the Cubs. The decision which led to McGinnity's ejectment was apparently a mistaken one, as was one calling Mertes out at third when he was trying to stretch at two bagger.

nity's ejectment was apparently a mistaken one, as was one calling Mertes out at third when he was trying to stretch a two bagger. Browne, who culled four hits, banged the leather for three bases in the first inning. A swift high fling sent Donlin to the mat on three strikes, but McGiann singled over the infield and scored Browne. Mertes made a two hargest in the fourth inning, with nohods.

in succession—this in the third, fourth and fifth innings. In the seventh inning Chance singled to right, and Tinker duplicated. Evers sacrificed, and Dr. Casey flipped a two bagger to right that brought in Chance and Tinker. Reulbach's lusty lift to center scored Casey. McGinnity batted in a New York run in the seventh. First Devlin clouted for a corner. He advanced when Bowerman stopped an inshoot with his funnybone, and took third on a passed ball. McGinnity's hit tallied him, seventh. First Devlin clouted for a corner. He advanced when Bowerman stopped an inshoot with his funnybone, and took third on a passed ball. McGinnity s hit tallied him.

Maloney singled in the eighth inning, and Schulte sacrificed. Maloney hoofed it to third on Chance's hit. Tinker hit to Devlin, who threw low to the plate, but Bresnahan made a good pickup and nailed Maloney at the tane. Chance went to third on the play, and after Tinker had stolen second, witse made his wild pitch. When Chance hit to right in this inning the ball was returned to McGinnity, and Maloney was off third at the time. McGinnity threw to Devlin, but O'Day said safe. Thereupon McGinnity's kick and dismissal.

Tinker fumbled Strang's grounder in the ninth. Evers threw our Bresnahan, but Wiltse walked. Tinker made a dazzling stop of Browne's hit and held Strang at third. Sammy, however, gailoped home on Donlin's fly to right. McGann was dented by a pitched ball, filling the bases. Mertes came to the front with a two bagger to right that fetched Wiltse and Browne to the desired destination.

In the tenth, with one out, Casey's error.

PITTEBURG, 11: BROOKLYN. 2.

Attendance—5.00.

PITTRBURG, 11: BROOKLYN, 2.

The beauty of bunching hits as distinguished from stringing them out was illustrated in the Brooklyn-Pittsburg game vesterday. The Brooklyn-Bitsburg agame vesterday. The Brooklyn-Bitsburgs in batting, but their batting lacked the sequence of Pittsburg's, so the Pirates won, and with a good deal to spare. In the third inning, when Jones was batted out of the box, the Pittsburgs batted all the way around and one over. There were five hits, including a home run, in this distressing inning. Clymer of Pittsburg developed an appetite for base hits that was quite gluttonous. He came to bat six times and only once did he fail to emerge from the mix-up with the ball without a hit. But the best of men sometimes become careless, hence Clymer's failure to make six hits. Lumley, too, had a good batting day, with four safe drives, When the Pittsburgs were not hitting the ball they were stealing bases, and between the two they left the Brooklyns far in the rear.

The score: PITTABURO BROOKLYN.
